GENEALOGY

MYERS.

MYERS. German and English, was taken in Germany from the profession of "Meier," describing a bailiff or steward of a manorial estate or castle. Meier was originally derived from the ancient Latin "Maior" meaning "great one."

The Myers shield from Hesse, Germany, is blue, decorated with two lily-of-the-valley stems each bearing three silver flowers. Myers also has an English origin from "Myerscough" meaning "marshy-forest," the ancestral home site. The English Myers shield is silver, emblazoned with an ancient three-masted ship with black sails.
